BEFORE YOU APPLY

Candidates considering future examination administrations are expected to have read all communication provided by the CCEB.

COVID-19 continues to have significant impacts globally. It is not possible to provide certainty that the in-person examinations will be permitted at any specific point.

We ask for your continued understanding. This situation is not within the control of the CCEB.

- In spite of submitting draft guidelines to governments, the CCEB has not been able to secure clarification/certainty as to the phase of opening during which entry-to-practice examinations may be performed.
- Due to the ongoing uncertainty and potential for significant gathering limits/restrictions, the CCEB has added additional dates and sites to our Component C examination.
 - Candidates will not be permitted to request a certain date or time.
 - Candidates will be permitted to select a site preference, but this site is not guaranteed.
- The CCEB reserves the right, at their sole discretion, to add, delete, or alter the examination locations. This may include moving to an alternate site, or even alternate city or province, other than those listed, to conduct the examinations.
 - Candidates should wait to receive confirmation from the CCEB of their examination location prior to making any arrangements.
- The CCEB has added a remote proctoring option for the Component A and B examinations.
 - Candidates who elect to use remote proctoring will be solely responsible for meeting all technical requirements.
 - Information on technical specifications will be posted before applications open.
